

Janeeva Assurance™ On-line Software nominated for Global Sourcing Summit's 'Innovation Award'

Ann Arbor, MI (November 9, 2005) - Janeeva Assurance™, software for Outsourcing Relationship Management that effectively brings remote operations to the desktop was nominated for the recent Global Sourcing Summit's 'Innovation Award'.

“We believe this award nomination, for innovation in solving a client problem, is a great win for Janeeva because it is voted on solely by attending Sourcing Executives”, said Janeeva’s Vineet Katial. “These people are intimately acquainted with the challenges of managing outsourcing relationships. They understood the value of our offering to their companies immediately”, continued Katial.

Janeeva is the first company to offer an Outsourcing Relationship Management product focused on BPO and the customer/provider relationship. Offered in a subscription-based “Software as a Service” model, Janeeva Assurance™ software is a unique tool that monitors, reports and forecasts the overall health and results of the outsourcing engagement with actionable information on a daily/frequent basis. Industry specific templates and non-intrusive data adapters facilitate implementation in weeks versus months of custom development. The software enables users to remotely oversee day-to-day operations, make timely decisions by accessing meaningful metrics, and maintain control of people and processes thousands of miles away.

IT and business executives from large, midsize and Fortune 1000 companies looking for global services providers attend the Global Sourcing Summit. There, they meet with leading worldwide service providers, analysts and top industry experts in the best governance models, knowledge management, and relationship models for successful nearshore and offshore sourcing.

“At this still early point in the global sourcing lifecycle, executives are very interested in who their peers regard as being the most reputable and high-performing Sourcing Vendors. And so, Global Sourcing Summit Awards are not only a vote of confidence for vendors who achieve this coveted recognition – it also helps IT executives make confident sourcing decisions by learning who their colleagues consider the vendors-of-choice.” said Charles Badoian, Senior Global Director for Global Sourcing Summit.

The Innovation Award is given for innovation in solving a client problem. Those nominated must demonstrate a thorough understanding of a client's IT or business challenge, and have the ability to propose a unique resolution and effectively deliver that solution.
